West Pollock Recreation Area is truly a hidden gem encompassed by the Missouri River near the small town of Pollock. Anglers enjoy the park as a prime location to stay when fishing for walleyes and an abundance of other Lake Oahe fish, including smallmouth bass, white bass, northern pike and perch. The park has a boat ramp that provides easy access to the water and a fish cleaning station. There are 29 campsites at the campground, and comfort station with showers. In the fall campers include pheasant, grouse and waterfowl hunters.

The prairie oasis of Little Moreau Recreation Area is home to an abundance of animals and plants. Be on the lookout for red foxes, bobcats and coyotes. Bird species include wild turkeys, sharptail grouse, gray partridge, pheasants, and snowy and great-horned owls. In the winter, bald and golden eagles are often spotted. This remote park has 5 campsites available on a first-come, first-served basis.
